

UK Field Sales Engineer – Aberdeen based

Norbar Torque Tools Ltd., the world leading torque tool manufacturer has a vacancy for an experienced Field Sales Engineer to join our Norbar UK Sales team.

Responsible to the UK Business Manager, you will be required to support the sales strategy by promoting Brand awareness through servitization, engineered solutions, product demonstrations and attendance at exhibitions and seminars.

You will establish, develop and maintain positive relationships with key decision makers with targeted end users and OEMs within your territory.

Maintaining and developing a detailed understanding of new and existing Norbar products is essential and therefore you will have previous experience within the UK Hand Tool Industry, preferably in a related industry, in a field sales role. A strong background in one of the following would be a significant benefit; oil and gas, automotive, manufacturing, power generation, aerospace and transportation.

You will be expected to be Aberdeen based and work from home. In return we can offer a starting salary of £36,170 plus lease car.

Norbar also offers a non-guaranteed profit related bonus, contributory pension scheme, life assurance and other lifestyle benefits.
